

Hello from the bustling metropolis of Milford, Delaware, culture center of the universe... Delaware scene reports are such a rarity that I thought I'd try my hand at submitting one. Before I get started, though, I'd like to share with you an extreme example of the misplaced priorities of the typical high-school administration. I'm typing this in a school that's currently using some sort of toxic bonding agent to repair its roof during school hours. 100% of the teachers located in the wing undergoing repairs and many students having classes in that wing have gotten sick from breathing in fumes and dust, suffering dizziness, coughing, and flu like symptoms. Meanwhile, the administration is occupying itself with such weighty duties as patrolling the hallways for "loitering" (God forbid) students, and devising new and ingenious ways to diminish the number of students who are late to class. Needless to say, they refused to tell me the name of the chemical that they were using, although I did find out that it's produced by a company called Carlisle Syntax and comes in containers marked "toxic", but as long as we're in class on time everything is O.K., right boys and girls?

Anyway, back to the scene report. Shows have been pretty scarce downstate, due mostly to the fact that most rental halls are a one-time thing, and there are only so many halls in a state this size. People don't seem to realize that when they fuck things up, or steal things, or try to sneak in for free, that they seriously jeopardize their chances of future shows. Still, South Dakota's Dissent played here a few weeks ago, with the ABRA-CADAVERS, MORBID LIFE, Unity, Cognition and Stepping Razor. Despite a small turn out and injuries caused by Halloween candy hurled out during the A-C set, it was a show marked by great people and great attitudes. Many thanks go to Ami and Kevin, and to everyone who donated money and/or food!

Dover's MORBID LIFE have just released a split demo with Wilmington's INFECTION, get a copy for $5 from INFECT/ 2105 D Prior Rd./ Wilmington, De. 19809.

A new band that seems to be getting better and more bizarre with every practice is WAXED, and innovative noise band from Dover. They've been undergoing extensive line-up shifts, so hopefully they'll find something that they're happy with soon. Despite the loss of two of their band members, ENDANGERED FECES of Newark are getting back on their feet with a new singer and drummer. For info call Eric at 302-999-9947; I'm sure he would love to hear from anyone.

Rumor has it that MARCUS HOOK, also of Newark, have gotten back together. Unfortunately, I have no address or phone number.

Milford's notorious F.V.K./E.M.G. have finally released vinyl. Call their "vicious rumor control hotline" at 302-422 6190, it's better than T.V.

Zinewise, The Cryptical Oyster is available for $1.50 p.pd. from Michael/ 312 Mallard Dr. / Dover, De. 19901, it has all kinds of stuff.

More much desired phone numbers. call WAXED at (302)678-1104. Newark's PASCAL'S ARMY is (302)731-4523, and ABRA-CADAVERS can be reached at (301) 284-5501. Bands who wish to grace our lovely state, call either Kevin (of MORBID LIFE) at (302)492-0461, or me at (302)335-4864, or write to me at RD3 BOX 387 D/ Milford, DE. 19963.

If anyone was left out of this report or if any of the info was wrong, I apologize; feel free to do it yourself next time! That's all for now.... Heather.
